Smart Glasses & Wearables

Useful tools for your Digital Workforce

Intelligent glasses and wearables will fundamentally transform the day-to-day operation in the service industry. One of the two major changes will be the seamless connectivity to systems for accessing information. The same goes for collaboratively working together across country and language boundaries.

Bilfinger is constantly testing new hardware and software products and then integrating the best solutions into the operations of its 25.000 industrial service experts.
